Updated credentials for Universal Type Client

2022-08-30 - Erich S. Lehman - Labs

`We have updated the login credentials for the Extensis Universal Type Client v7.0.12 in the College of Art and Design for Fall 2022. We will have a roughly two-week transition period beginning today where the old usernames and passwords work while we get the word out. The old username and password will expire on Friday, September 16, 2022.

Users will be able to access the same set of fonts* they had access to with the previous usernames until that time.

All workstations in the College of Art and Design have access to Extensis Universal Type Server to manage your fonts. This will provide an easy interface to use your own fonts on the CAD workstations as well as access a rich library of typefaces.

Download the PDF with the login information here.

For more information on UTC: https://helpdesk.cad.rit.edu/kb/articles/universal-type-client

Adobe has announced the end of support for PostScript fonts for January 2023.

As such, we've disabled the PostScript font sets in advance of this transition. OpenType font sets remain Accessible.

For more information on the end of PosScript support: PostScript Type 1 Fonts end of support article.

Updated August 30, 2022